MAN STABBED WIFE TO DEATH

Court accepts manslaughter plea on grounds of diminished responsibility

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A MAN who stabbed his estranged wife to death when she visited his South Tottenham home has admitted killing her while the balance of his mind was disturbed.

Somali national Bashir Ali, 42, pleaded guilty to the manslaughter of his wife on the grounds of diminished responsibility at the Old Bailey on Monday and is scheduled to be sentenced at the same court today (Wednesday).

He killed 41-year-old Deeqa Ibrahim at the flat where he was living in Bramble Close while he was experiencing a mental health episode.

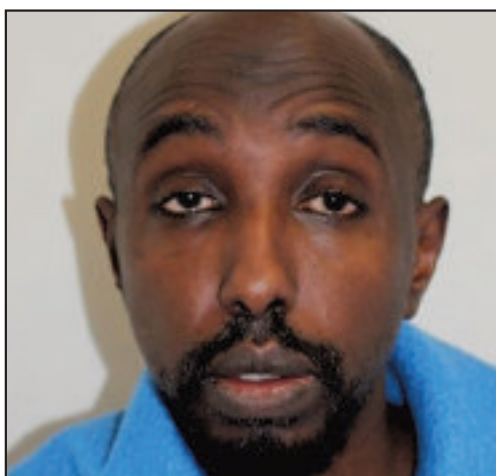

He and Somali-born British national Deeqa had lived together in Ealing, west London, until 2015 when they separated.

They had two sons and two daughters aged between the ages of four and nine, all of whom were living with Mrs Ibrahim at the time.

Police were called to Mr Ali's address at about 9pm on November 23, last year and found her suffering from multiple stab wounds.

They administered first aid before ambulance crews arrived, but she was pronounced dead at the scene.

Ali had originally been charged with murder, but his plea of manslaughter by diminished responsibility was accepted by the court.

Guilty plea: Bashir Ali is due to be sentenced today

Police appeal over brutal attack on fan

THIS is the face of a violent soccer yob who left a Spurs fan with a broken skull and horrific facial injuries in an unprovoked attack.

Detectives have released a photofit of the thug in the hope someone might recognise him and provide them with his identity.

Michael Voller, 23, was brutally beaten not far from Wembley Stadium following Tottenham Hotspur's FA Cup semi-final defeat by Chelsea last month.

Police believe the suspect is a fellow Spurs fan, who mistook him for a Chelsea supporter. Michael, a former Spurs groundsman, had been to the game with a group of friends.

As they walked past the Moore Spice Indian restaurant in Engineers Way, he was targeted by another group of Tottenham fans and one of them punched him in the face with such force he suffered a broken eye socket, cheekbone, jaw and fractured skull.

Police have been able to produce the e-fit with the assistance of a witness.

The suspect is described as a white man, in his early 20s and about 5ft 10ins tall. He was wearing a black hooded top or jacket at the time of the attack.

"This unprovoked and cowardly attack has resulted in injuries that could affect the rest of a young man's life," said investigating officer Detective Constable James Robb.

"There is no place for this kind of violence in football or anywhere else. Someone knows who committed this unprovoked attack and I sincerely hope they do the right thing and help us place this violent individual before the courts. All information we receive is treated in the strictest confidence, but you can remain anonymous by calling Crimestoppers."

Anyone who has information should call Brent CID on 020 8733 3737 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Five-a-side team gets a kick out of football

SEVERAL residents from a housing scheme which helps people with mental health problems rehabilitate back into the community played soccer at Millwall FC's ground.

Back In The Game, the team from the scheme in Victoria Road, Wood Green, signifying how lives were being turned around with a transition to independent living, came third in a tournament involving mental health trusts in the capital.

It was part of a programme of activities for Mental Health Awareness Week.

Candidates confirmed

THIRTEEN wannabe MPs will contest Haringey's two seats in the general election.

The ballot on Thursday, June 8, will see eight hopefuls do battle in Hornsey and Wood Green, which Labour won in 2015 with a majority of 11,508.

Five candidates will contest the Tottenham seat, where Labour romped home with 23,564 votes two years ago.

The Hornsey and Wood Green candidates are: Nimco Ali (Women's Equality Party); Christine Athow (Workers' Revolutionary Party); Dawn Barnes (Liberal Democrats); Sam Hall (Green Party); Emma Lane (Conservative); Ruth Price (UKIP); Helen Spiby-Vann (Christian Peoples Alliance); and Catherine West (Labour).

The Tottenham candidates are: Jarelle Francis (Green Party); Brian Haley (Liberal Democrats); David Lammy (Labour); Patricia Rumble (UKIP); and Myles Stacey (Conservative).

Last-ditch bid: The Falcon pub, in South Street, Ponders End, is being demolished

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS have had their hopes of saving a Victorian pub from being developed into flats dashed.

The Falcon, in South Street, Ponders End, is in the process of being demolished after developers received planning permission from Enfield Council in February to turn the site into flats.

An application made by The Enfield Society for it to be designated an asset of community value was submitted after planning approval was granted and was too late for it to gain AVC status before the deadline expired.

Ponders End resident Edwina Osborne, who is a member of The Enfield Society, applied on behalf of the group last Friday in an attempt to protect the heritage of the pub, which dates back 300 years.

But under new rules in the Town and Country Planning General Permitted Development Order, the submission was too late to halt demolition work.

A council spokesman said: "The changes in legislation to the Town and Country Planning General Permitted Development Order came into force yesterday (Tuesday).

"While these new powers would mean that in future the council would have more control over the loss of public houses both in terms of change of use and demolition, unfortunately work that has already commenced under the current provision is unaffected and can continue.

"In other words, we cannot use these new powers to retrospectively stop demolition and, as such, the redevelopment of The Falcon pub site cannot be halted."

John West, committee member from the architectural and planning group at The Enfield Society, expressed his disappointment.

"It's a terrible loss," he said, "but not entirely unexpected because it was picked up later than was wise, but it's easy to be wise after the event."

"Hindsight is a wonderful thing," added the 64-year-old, of Cranford Avenue, Palmers Green.

"It seems very sad to lose a building that connected to Ponders End which was once a very much thriving area in the 1960s and 1970s. T

"There's been a pub on that site for 300 years."

Union boss speaks out about education cuts

UNION leader Kevin Courtney was due to join concerned parents and teachers from Enfield this week to speak out against cuts in school funding.

Mr Courtney, general secretary of the NUT, the largest teachers' union in Europe, was expected at a meeting at St Luke's Church, in Browning Road, Enfield, last night (Tuesday), along with Maureen Cobbett, headteacher of Latymer, a selective secondary school, in Haselbury Road, Edmonton.

The meeting was part of a national, parent-led campaign fighting cuts to school funding – Fair Funding For All Schools.

Schools in Enfield are facing a loss of £27million in funding by 2019.

The Fair Funding for All Schools campaign has been set up by a group of parents in an attempt to force government ministers to listen to concerns about the worsening financial situation facing schools across the country.

Time's running out if you want an allotment

RESIDENTS are being urged to hurry if they want to become an allotment holder as there are only a few vacant plots remaining to rent on the borough's 30 sites.

Enfield Council says there has been a surge in interest in people growing their own vegetables and snapping up plots.

Vacancies are available at Elliotts Field allotment, in Aspen Way, Freezywater; Carterhatch Lane allotment, at Enfield Playing Fields; Church Street 4 and Church Street 2 allotments, in Great Cambridge Road, between Bury Street and Church Street, Edmonton; and Weir Hall allotment, in Great Cambridge Road, Edmonton.

Home Secretary Amber Rudd visits borough in wake of latest stabbing incident

'Early intervention can help tackle knife crime'

'More we can do': Home Secretary Amber Rudd, pictured during her meeting with the borough's police chief, Detective Chief Superintendent Iain Raphael

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

HOME Secretary Amber Rudd said there was "no silver bullet" to tackling knife crime when she visited Enfield on Monday, but "early intervention in primary schools was crucial".

During her meeting with the borough commander Detective Chief Superintendent Iain Raphael, Ms Rudd was reassured that the police had the "right tools" to "break the link" of stabbings.

"He was very clear that they have a strategy," said Ms Rudd.

"They have their own plans which they formulated with the commissioner – both London-wide and locally – with two separate operations."

Ms Rudd said she was reassured by the police chief that they had the "right resources" which involved a "compilation of different things". However, she said the issue needed to be targeted at grass-roots level by educating primary and secondary school children.

"There's more we can do about getting into schools earlier telling young people about the dangers of carrying knives and how they can protect themselves and why they shouldn't get into that culture," she said.

She followed the meeting with a visit to North Enfield Conservative Club, in Baker Street, where she discussed the issues with Nick de Bois, the Tories' prospective parliamentary candidate for Enfield North.

Mr de Bois spearheaded Enfield's Law to deter young people from carrying knives with the two-strikes-and-out legislation which was passed through parliament before he lost in the 2015 general election.

"When we pressed the borough commander on having the right resources, he was very clear that they have the Territorial Support Group working on issues here in the borough," said Mr de Bois.

"That involves maintaining the level of officers to provide the extra visibility which people are understandably now looking for."

Ms Rudd also met Yvonne Lawson, who set up the Godwin Lawson Foundation to tackle youth crime following the fatal stabbing of her 17-year-old son in 2010.

Mrs Lawson discussed the need to make workshops on knife crime part of the school curriculum.

"Schools need to be aware of the need to educate young people," she said. "They need to be taught how to keep safe which is a step forward in tackling the issue."

She said that Ms Rudd's visit highlighted the need for urgent action to be taken against knife crime.

"We needed more acknowledgement from a higher level," she added.

Ms Rudd's visit followed a 20-minute phone conversation between Mr de Bois and Prime Minister Theresa May last Friday.

An emergency meeting is being held tonight (Wednesday) at St James Parish Church, in Hertford Road, Enfield Highway, when Enfield police will discuss stabbings in the borough with residents.

Teenager hospitalised following park attack

Crime scene: Paramedics treat the stabbing victim in Bush Hill Park (photo: David Lock); below, a police officer keeps guard

THIS picture captures the dramatic moments following the stabbing of a teenager in Enfield – the latest in a wave of knife attacks in the borough.

The 17-year-old victim was photographed by a bystander as he lay fighting for his life after being knifed in broad daylight last Wednesday in Bush Hill Park, opposite a primary school.

Police sealed off the park just before 2pm and are still appealing for witnesses a week later.

The teenager was rushed to an east London hospital. His condition is not known.

A spokeswoman for George Spicer school in Southbury Road, opposite the park, said last week: "We sent a text message out to all parents telling them to make alternative arrangements and not go through the park because it had been closed off because of a police incident."

Police confirmed there have been no arrests. Inquiries continue.

Cuts to police numbers have contributed to problem, claims Ryan

HOME Secretary Amber Rudd's predecessor, Theresa May, should shoulder some of the blame for Enfield's rising levels of violence, Labour's Joan Ryan has claimed.

She was speaking after Ms Rudd visited Enfield on Monday to discuss the spate of fatal stabbings and knifings with the borough's police commander.

Ms Ryan, Labour's prospective parliamentary candidate for Enfield

North, said that cuts to police numbers and changes in stop and search laws, brought in by Prime Minister Mrs May when she was Home Secretary, had contributed to violent crime in the borough "rocketing by 70 per cent."

"I don't believe it is a coincidence that this increase has come at exactly the same time as 188 police officers and police community support officers have been axed from Enfield's streets," Ms Ryan said. "Nor is it a coincidence that violent crime has rocketed at exactly the same time as when it became harder for our police to carry out stop and search of youths suspected of carrying knives."

She said that fewer police on the streets was a result of "short-sighted cuts" made when Mrs May was Home Secretary and Boris Johnson, the then Mayor of London.

"Crime is the fault of those who commit it, but the Conservatives cannot wash their hands of their responsibility for cutting nearly 200 police officers and community support officers," she added.

"The law on jailing offenders for a second offence is no use if we haven't got enough police to enforce it and, sadly, it is a matter of record that it has failed to stop the knife crime we have seen in Enfield."

Dancers in the mood

VISITORS to Forty Hall had a taste of 19th-century England when they donned chiffon dresses, bonnets and white gloves and took part in a regency dance.

The Long Gallery at the 17th-century house, in Forty Hill, Enfield, was transformed with classical musicians and dancers as part of a Jane Austen weekend, celebrating the life of the novelist 200 years after the anniversary of her death.

Forty Hall spokeswoman Victoria Sanderson said: "The dance workshop encouraged people to step back in time to learn the popular dances of Jane Austen's era as taught by expert Anne Daye. Participants learnt basic steps and figures for the longways country dances of the day and new waltzes and experienced uplifting music from the era."

The regency dance was popular in Austen's fiction, as in many novels of the 19th century, and the ball was the ultimate social occasion.

Other highlights of the weekend were a still life and flower painting workshop and a talk, delivered by local study guide Joe Studman, about Enfield in the time of Jane Austen, as well as a classical music concert entitled Songs, Airs and Dances From Jane Austen's Notebooks.

Austen's use of biting irony, along with her realism and social commentary, have made her books hugely popular.

Pleased as punch

CHAMPION boxer Floyd Mayweather certainly knows how to pack a punch.

The American superstar and multiple world title winner was a big hit with fans in Lee Valley Athletics Centre, in Meridian Way, Edmonton, when he dropped by for a bout of training.

Mayweather, 40, who is rumoured to have signed a deal to fight UFC lightweight champion Conor McGregor, was at the centre for a training session with his protégé Geronta Davis before the latter knocked out Liam Walsh at the Copper Box Arena, in the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park, in east London, on Saturday night to retain his IBF lightweight belt.

'Homophobic' attack leaves car owner fearing for his life

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

RAMPAGING jobs wielding knives and hammers have caused thousands of pounds worth of damage to an Enfield man's Mercedes in what he believes is a homophobic attack.

Six youths wearing hoodies to hide their faces launched a frenzied attack on Nicholas Marrion's car in the early hours of Tuesday morning last week.

The whole thing – caught on CCTV – only lasts about 30 seconds, but the mindless vandals slashed every tyre, smashed the windscreen and tagged the doors and bonnet of his company car.

Mr Marrion, of Bressey Avenue, Enfield Town, is so scared he hasn't left his house since and is planning to move from the area.

He said: "I am in fear of my life. I have no idea why this has happened other than it being some kind of homophobic attack.

"I am a gay man and feel that this could possibly lead to another form of attack on my life and no one would even care.

"I'm scared they will come back.

"The fact they are walking around with knives and hammers in the middle of the night is really frightening, especially with all these stabbings going on.

"I'm going to set up and move. I just don't feel safe any more."

A police spokesman said: "Police in Enfield are investigating an allegation of criminal damage.

"The offence happened at about 3.30ams on Tuesday, May 16, in Bressey Avenue.

"Six people wearing hoodies attacked a red

Frightening: The damage to Nicholas Marrion's Mercedes, main picture and inset

"The attackers then made off."

There have been no arrests and police inquiries continue.

THERE'S a shoppers' paradise to rival any of north London's major shopping precincts and retail complexes.

Palmers Green might not have figured in most people's basket of the finest high street shopping parades, but what it lacks in the overblown hype and window dressing of the giant retail centres is more than made up for in its range and variety of independent shops and major chain stores.

There is everything you could possibly want or need, whether you are simply doing your regular weekly household shop, looking to snap up a bargain or hunting for that very special gift.

From designer clothing, household furnishings and electrical goods to luxury items, DIY and major supermarket chains it has the lot – all situated along the A105 Green Lanes and in Aldermans Hill and conveniently served by bus and rail.

And during your shopping trip, why not avail yourself of its variety of restaurants, takeaways, coffee shops, cafés, bars and pubs?

"There are a range of cuisines to reflect the cultures of the communities that have settled here," says Costas Georgiou, chairman of the Green Lanes Business Association. "The Greek Cypriots were the first newcomers, but there are now Turkish restaurants and several Chinese."

It's the ideal destination for a spot of retail therapy and, according to Mr Georgiou, has a distinctive charm all of its own.

But he claims that plans for cycle lanes along both sides of Green Lanes risk jeopardising its fragile economy with shopkeepers already complaining that they have seen a drop in trade due to fewer on-street parking spaces.

"We have worked hard to ensure Palmers Green has full occupancy of retail premises and wouldn't want rows of empty, shuttered shops familiar to some high streets," added Mr Georgiou.

Tributes paid to last Bowles Boy

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have been paid following the death of Charlie Smith, the "Man Friday" of celebrated botanist Edward Augustus Bowles, who created the marvellous Myddelton House Gardens, in Bulls Cross, Enfield.

Mr Smith, who suffered a fatal heart attack at the age of 97, was not only personal gardener to EA Bowles until the Victorian plantsman's death in 1954, he was also his chauffeur and office assistant.

He was one of several "Bowles Boys", local lads from poor families, whom the botanist and philanthropist took under his wing and helped with their education.

After being demobbed at the end of World War II, Mr Smith, who was born in Goat Lane, Enfield, and later lived for many years in Beaconsfield Road, Enfield Lock, was invited by EA Bowles to work at Myddelton House.

When Mr Bowles died, he left Mr Smith the princely sum of £150 a year for the rest of his life in his will.

It was known as the Parker Bowles Annuity and Mr Smith was the last surviving recipient among the seven servants who received it.

End of an era: Charlie Smith in Myddelton House Gardens

From 1954 onwards, Myddelton House Gardens was bought and run jointly by the Royal Free Hospital School of Medicine and the London School of Pharmacy, who turned the kitchen garden into a medicinal garden.

Mr Smith's work included highly secretive research into the benefits of drugs to relieve pain and he was one of the few people in the UK granted a licence to grow cannabis and opium poppies.

He later rose to become head gardener in 1970, a post he held until 1985, when he retired aged 65.

A few weeks later, he was persuaded to return to the kitchen garden where he remained for a further 15 years with an assistant until the medicinal garden and adjoining sports fields were sold to the Lee Valley Regional Park Authority in 2000.

"Charlie was the last remaining direct link with the gardens' famous ancestor and was a fountain of knowledge about EA Bowles," said present head gardener James Hall.

Historian and Bowles biographer Bryan Hewitt, himself a gardener at Myddelton House since 1983, also paid tribute.

"Charlie knew so much and he was always so willing to share information about those times...and now there is no one left to ask," he said. "He was a wonderful friend."

(Toad) Hall to play for

STUNNINGLY brought to life in a spectacular new musical by Oscar-winning screenwriter and creator of Downton Abbey Julian Fellowes and Olivier Award-winning composer and lyricist George Stiles and Anthony Drewe, THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS is the perfect summer treat – and we have two family tickets to give away.

Actor, comedian and presenter Rufus Hound will play the amazing Mr Toad, joined by West End stars Simon Lipkin as Rat and Craig Mather as Mole, EastEnders actor Neil McDermott as Chief Weasel, with Coronation Street and Boy Meets Girl star Denise Welch as Mrs Otter and West End legend Gary Wilmot as Badger.

Featuring eye-poppingly beautiful design, exuberant choreography and a gloriously British score, THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS brings comedy, heart and thrills to the world-famous LONDON PALLADIUM from June.

The show is running at the London Palladium, in Argyll Street, from June 16 to September 9.

Children go free on Monday to Friday performances – for details visit WillowsMusical.com

For your chance to win one of two family tickets, just answer the following question:

■ Who wrote the novel THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS?

A) Lewis Carroll B) Kenneth Grahame C) Beatrix Potter

Send your answers, with your name, address and a daytime phone number, to: Wind In The Willows Competition, North London & Essex News Ltd, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Wind In The Willows" in the subject line, by noon on June 1.

Terms and conditions:

- There are 2x family tickets to be won.
- Each family ticket consists of 4x tickets for two adults and two children to see THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS and is valid for Monday to Friday performances until July 31 2017.
- Tickets are strictly subject to availability.
- Tickets are non-transferable.
- No cash alternative is available.
- Travel is not included.

With your help we can beat it

EVERY year, heart and circulatory disease kills about 13,500 in London and, currently, 716,000 people in the city are living with its burden. The need to find new ways to prevent, diagnose and treat these terrible conditions is more urgent than ever.

That's why I'm calling on everyone to take part in the British Heart Foundation's (BHF) Wear It Beat It campaign and join thousands of others across the UK on Friday, June 9, by wearing red and holding a fundraising event to help us stop heart disease in its tracks.

From a bake sale or coffee morning at work, to a red-themed garden party with friends and family, whatever you choose to do, Wear It Beat It is a great way to bring everyone together and help make a difference to millions. You will be also be helping the BHF fund even more cutting-edge breakthroughs that will help end the devastation caused by heart disease.

Last year more than 15,000 people took part in Wear It Beat It, raising more than £750,000. To sign up and receive a free fundraising pack full of ideas about how to get involved, visit wearitbeatit.bhf.org.uk

An easier way to get in touch

I AM writing to let your readers know that we have made it easier to get through to Enfield Citizens Advice by telephone.

The queues on our doorstep get longer each day and space means that we can't always see everyone – but we have put extra phone lines on, supported by a Big Lottery Fund grant. Do telephone us if you need advice.

Call 0300 330 1167, Monday to Friday, 10am to 4pm, plus one Saturday morning a month (dates on our website, www.enfieldcab.org.uk).

If you call from a mobile, the service will ask you for a landline number to make sure you are in Enfield. If you don't have one, use 020 8375 4170. It's usually a bit easier to get through in the afternoon.

If you would prefer to email us, you can do this via our website.

At least have the decency to use the cycle lanes

WHAT a shambles the Green Lanes cycle lanes are turning out to be.

Leaving aside the obvious disruption to businesses and other traffic along the route, we now see young trees along Green Lanes, between Hedge Lane and Barrowell Green, being chopped down to make way for it.

I thought one of the objectives of encouraging cycling was to help the environment. Don't trees also do this, at far less cost and inconvenience? And where are all the cyclists?

On Saturday, I saw two people cycling on the pavement along Green Lanes and a family of four (all kitted out in high vis jackets) cycling against the flow in that part of Green Lanes where the lanes are complete.

And these are by no means the only cyclists to be seen cycling the wrong way along the lanes that are placed both sides of the road.

Likewise, a squad of cyclists were to be seen there cycling in the lanes meant for motor vehicles and ignoring the newly-completed cycle lanes.

As a senior citizen who has never driven and who relies on public transport, my main concern about this fiasco has always been the effect on bus services.

I have been outraged to see that, thanks to repositioning as a result of the cycle lanes, an apparently permanent new zebra crossing outside Winchmore Hill Sainsbury's cuts right across the supposedly reserved space for buses to stop there.

Indeed, thanks to the alignment of all this, buses cannot pull into the kerb without obstructing the zebra crossing.

Hard luck to anyone like myself who is getting on in years and is consequently "mobility-impaired".

Surely, the crossing and the buses obstructing each other is a recipe for disaster and may well be downright illegal?

It is outrageous that, at a time of supposed austerity, so much public money is being wasted on this scheme, just as it was that so many more millions of pounds worth of public money was wasted on the so-called "New Routemaster" buses.

And who was largely behind both of these things? Boris Johnson.

The priority has to be protecting lives

OUR thoughts are with the families and friends of the victims of the spate of knife crime.

While knife crime is a London-wide issue, last week's Walk of Peace shows that our strong local communities continue to pull together in the face of these atrocities.

Enfield Council remains committed to supporting the police to do everything it can to target knife crime and tackle this scourge.

This includes fully supporting the police's Operation Bremont to tackle knife and violent crime in Enfield through a wide variety of means such as increasing use of CCTV, more patrols and the use of stop and search in areas experiencing knife crime.

While we appreciate this can be seen as intrusive, the police priority at this difficult time has to be the protection of life.

While the council continues to prioritise community safety – even funding additional police for our estates despite massive cuts in local authority funding – it is an absolute scandal that the government continues to cut Met Police funding at a time when knife crime is on the increase.

We have heard a lot about "strong and stable" leadership over the past few weeks.

Surely this should start at home with the right levels of investment in our police force to enable them to provide the safe and secure communities we deserve?

Councillor Krystle Fonyonga
Cabinet member for community safety and public health

□ KNIFE crime is truly reprehensible, and disproportionately afflicts the least privileged in society.

We must, therefore, focus on what works. Last year saw a 24 per cent increase in knife crime. Knee-jerk increased incarceration is clearly not working.

Action on schools is welcome. With the police still suffering the effects of deep cuts, local people with real experience could sensibly be used instead.

Better, then, to focus on the causes of crime. Young people have been gravely affected by austerity, with the scrapping of the EMA and real-term cuts to youth services and 16-19 education.

Only ensuring education, employment and economic security for all will get to the heart of the problem.

Benjamin Gill
Green Party candidate, Edmonton

Winner must pledge to help us to end FGM within 15 years

IN the run-up to the general election, political campaigners are pounding the pavements pushing pamphlets through voters' doors.

Promises about tax, the NHS and improvements to the education system are likely to get a mention on the leaflets, but it's highly unlikely you'll see anything about female genital mutilation (FGM), or other harmful traditional practices, such as breast ironing.

These issues rarely grab the headlines, so it's not surprising that politicians do not prioritise them when trying to win a place in parliament – but when they take their seats on the green benches MPs must not ignore this serious form of child sexual abuse.

Organisations across the world have pledged to end FGM within a generation and we want the future government to make this a reality.

FGM is child abuse and no girl should have to live with the harmful physical and emotional consequences of this terrible practice.

We believe the best way of preventing the practice is by working with girls and their families, raising awareness in schools and communities and training professionals such as teachers and social workers to spot girls at risk of FGM and know how to report it.

Barnardo's is leading the way in tackling the problem through innovative social work with girls and their families and our training and education programmes at the National FGM Centre, run in conjunction with the Local Government Association.

We want the next government to commit to helping us achieve our goal of ending FGM within 15 years.

We also need them to end other hidden forms of child abuse, including those linked to faith or belief, and breast ironing or flattening.

They must pledge to protect children from concealed crimes such as these, so they can have the opportunity and right to live happy and healthy lives.

Labour romps to convincing by-election victory

By Prima Kingsley-Adam

prima.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

LABOUR swept to victory in last week's council by-election in Enfield Lock.

Elif Erbil retained the seat left vacant by the resignation of Ozzie Uzoanya, declaring it an "overwhelming victory".

The result last Thursday evening saw Ms Erbil elected with 2,155 votes with Conservative candidate Christine Bellas trailing in second place with 973 votes.

The turnout was 32.21 per cent.

Speaking after her triumph, Ms Erbil said: "I know from talking to so many local residents on the doorstep that they are deeply concerned about the rise in violent crime, particularly following the recent wave of stabbings in the borough."

"Since 2010, under the Conservatives, Enfield has lost almost 200 police officers and police community support officers."

"These cuts have put the safety of our community at risk. So now I've been elected, my number one priority is to work together with residents, the police, the council, Joan Ryan [Enfield North Labour general election candidate] and the Mayor of London Sadiq Khan to get more police on our streets to help cut crime."

The Green Party's Kate McGregor secured third place with 104 votes while UKIP, who won 829 votes in the ward in the local elections three years ago, were relegated to fourth place with Gary Robbins gaining just 91 votes.

The Liberal Democrats, who did not stand in 2014, fared badly with Richard Morgan-Ash receiving only 54 votes.

There were 17 spoilt ballot papers.

Ms Erbil joins fellow Enfield Lock ward councillors Nneka Keazor and Krystle Fonyonga, Enfield Council's cabinet member for community safety and public health, on the Labour benches.

Round of applause: The winner is congratulated by Labour supporters

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

So long: George Smith was presented with farewell cards by children at George Spicer Primary School last week

Primary school bids farewell to retiring governor, 96

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

AFTER years of dressing up as Father Christmas and many more spent manning a stall at the summer fair, George Smith, 96, is retiring as a governor at an Enfield primary school.

Mr Smith, of Monks Road, Enfield, contracted pneumonia in March and has been "feeling his age" ever since, so he's decided to retire from his 19-year role as governor at George Spicer school, in Southbury Road.

The full school held an assembly to say goodbye on Monday last week and scores of children made him farewell cards.

Mr Smith, a printer by trade, said he would really miss them.

He said: "Being a school governor has been a new lease of life for me.

"People complain about children, but that's not right.

"Children are an absolute tonic these days. They are wonderful, articulate, happy young things and it's been a real pleasure."

Mr Smith has also been a volunteer at Cancer Research UK's charity shop for years in Enfield Town.

He worked at the London College of Printing in his youth, teaching printing techniques.

He's looking forward to doing more gardening with his free time – but will still be called on to visit the school as a "VIP".

Headteacher Hilary Ballantine said: "We'll all miss George, he's been a great friend to the school.

"But he'll be back!"

WHEN the hamlet of Winchmore Hill was first recorded in 1319, its main industry was selling firewood sourced from the oak forests nearby.

When the train line arrived in 1871, all that changed and it became established as a London suburb.

But unlike many of its surrounding areas – Palmers Green, Edmonton, Southgate and Grange Park – modern Winchmore Hill retains a village feel, with shops and restaurants gathered around The Green, a conservation area and beauty spot.

There's a lot on The Green to enjoy. The Larder is a cafe not to be missed; Pretty English is set back from The Green and sells quirky lamps, gorgeous baby clothes and novel cards; down the hill is Bike Boutique, a cafe, bike repair shop and all-round holy grail for cyclists in north London.

The Winchmore, in Winchmore Hill Road, has changed owners and is now a lovely place for great food and gin evenings, with a fabulous menu and even a real pizza oven.

But it's not just the eateries and shops.

There's Grovelands Park, a stunning park originally a private estate before being partly sold off to the council in 1913 (the part remaining in private hands now contains the Priory Clinic) and laid out by the great landscape designer Humphry Repton late in the 18th century.

Winchmore Hill Sports Club provides the area with cricket, football, tennis, hockey and table tennis facilities and teams.

Although just eight miles north of Moorgate on the Hertford Loop railway line, it feels a million miles away from the hustle and bustle of the city and is a beautiful place to while away a lazy afternoon.

All-star line-up: Dave Stark, left, with Dazl Martin, Andy McNish, Glen Knowler, Dave Collison, Mark Laver and Howard Robin

Shake, rattle and roll

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

WIGS and the dressing-up box are what many tribute bands rely on to give them the authentic look of the groups they mimic – but the Trembling Wilburys have no need for such props.

Two of the outfit's members bear such a striking resemblance to original Travelling Wilburys band members George Harrison and Roy Orbison that even Yoko Ono was almost fooled once.

The cover band will recreate the country rock sounds of the legendary supergroup when they appear at The Bull Theatre, in High Street, Barnet, on Saturday night.

Drummer and manager Dave Stark takes up the tale.

"It was before I'd formed the Trembling Wilburys and I had my own band, The Dave Stark Five, performing covers of hits from the 1960s and 1970s," explains the 64-year-old, who has been in the music business more than 30 years.

"I'd attended a blue plaque unveiling in 2010 to commemorate the flat Ringo Starr once owned in Marylebone which he leased to Jimi Hendrix and where John Lennon and Yoko also lived for a short while.

"Yoko was at the plaque ceremony and, like me, did a double take at a guy at the edge of the throng who looked uncannily like George Harrison – and as George had died nine years earlier, it was a bit unnerving to say the least. He was his spitting image and after the unveiling I went over and spoke to him. He said his name was Glen Knowler and I asked if he could sing. Yoko was so taken by his likeness to Harrison she took a selfie with him in it."

The idea for the Trembling Wilburys was already taking shape in Dave's head as Roy Orbison lookie-like and soundalike Dave Collison was already performing guest spots with the Dave Stark Five.

With existing band members Andy McNish doubling as Bob Dylan and Tom Petty and bass player Mark Laver as ELO's Jeff Lynne, the group was all but accounted for.

To reproduce the authentic sound, the line-up includes the addition of Dave on drums, Dazl Martin on lead guitar and Howard Robin on keyboard.

The original Travelling Wilburys were a studio band who produced two acclaimed albums between 1988 and 1990.

"They never played a live concert, so the Trembling Wilburys give fans a chance to experience what that might have been like," said Dave.

The set includes Wilburys classics Handle With Care and End Of The Line, as well as hits of the individual artists – from Roy Orbison (Only The Lonely, Crying and Pretty Woman), to Harrison-penned Beatles classics such as Here Comes The Sun, Something and While My Guitar Gently Weeps, to Dylan's I'll Be Your Baby Tonight, Petty's I Won't Back Down and Lynne's Hold On Tight, plus a rousing version of Chuck Berry's Roll Over Beethoven, as covered by ELO.

Pirates steers an uneasy course

PIRATES OF THE CARIBBEAN: SALAZAR'S REVENGE
(12A, 129 mins)

THE third and fourth voyages of the Pirates Of The Caribbean saga, At World's End and On Stranger Tides, sprung leaks in their ramshackle screenplays and capsized under the weight of feverish expectation.

After a six-year hiatus for long overdue repairs, the blockbuster series sets sail with two new directors at the helm – Joachim Ronning and Espen Sandberg – Johnny Depp swabbing the decks in his familiar guise as salty seadog Jack Sparrow.

Pirates Of The Caribbean: Salazar's Revenge is a marked improvement and anchors the outlandish action to solid performances from two charismatic young actors, Kaya Scodelario and Brenton Thwaites, with simmering on-screen chemistry.

Depp continues to ply his comic schtick with wide-eyed gusto and Oscar winner Javier Bardem is a lip-smacking, phantasmagorical villain from the watery underworld.

Action sequences are spectacular, including the hysterically overblown theft of a bank safe and a dizzying dance of death between Jack and a guillotine blade.

The fifth chapter has its pleasures, but it's not all plain sailing.

The return of Will Turner (Orlando Bloom) and another original character is misjudged, a central plot thread is disappointingly similar to another summer blockbuster and the 129-minute running time feels excessive.

A superfluous cameo for Paul McCartney also should have walked the gangplank.

Twelve-year-old Henry Turner (Lewis McGowan) stows away on the wreck of the Flying Dutchman in order to be reunited with his father Will.

"This is my fate, you must let me go," pleads Will, who is condemned to serve as captain of the watery vessel for eternity...unless his son can track down the mythical Trident of Poseidon.

Nine years later, Will (now played by Brenton Thwaites)

Back on board: Johnny Depp returns as Captain Jack Sparrow searches for the artefact's whereabouts on the island of St Martin, in the Caribbean, where he meets plucky astronomer Carina Smyth (Kaya Scodelario), who is labelled a witch because of her unerring love of science.

She possesses a diary penned by Galileo Galilei, which contains clues to the hiding place of the trident.

The duo join forces and unexpectedly cross paths with Sparrow. He is being pursued by spectral pirate Captain Armando Salazar (Bardem), who has escaped from the Devil's Triangle and intends to exact revenge, aided by Sparrow's old adversary, Captain Hector Barbossa (Geoffrey Rush).

A little Depp goes a long way in Pirates Of The Caribbean: Salazar's Revenge. He makes merry with his treasure chest of physical pratfalls and garbled one-liners.

Ronning and Sandberg keep a firm hand on the rudder and navigate a largely entertaining course between eye-popping spectacle and family feuds.

Their film is advertised as the "final" adventure and it would be sensible to drop the mainsail here while the series is still buoyant.

Strikes the perfect balance

By Darren Cassey

THIS is the Jaguar F-Type SVR, and those three letters at the end of its name signify that this is the fastest, lightest and most focused F-Type to date.

It's the work of Jaguar Land Rover's special vehicle operations division, which works on special versions of the company's cars.

However, far from being a stripped-out, lightweight track day hero, like a Porsche 911 GT3, the SVR is actually about being ludicrously fast, but totally usable in the real world.

That's why most of the weight savings are in places you won't notice – forged alloy wheels save 13.8kg, while carbon-ceramic brakes save a further 21kg, for example.

Other changes are more visual, however. There are louvers on the bonnet to aid engine cooling, vents in the bodywork to improve airflow and a prominent wing out back for increased downforce. This is a serious bit of kit.

Looks might be in the eye of the beholder, but there can't be many people who'd refute the fact the F-Type is one of the best-looking cars out there.

Its pretty lines wear the more aggressive aerodynamic addendum well and transform the car. Couple that with the gorgeous V8 wail from the exhaust pipes and the SVR's driver-focused attitude is immediately apparent. It's exciting before you even pull away.

However, all of that drama is not at the expense of too much comfort. Sure, the bucket seats are more cossetting, but they're also leather-wrapped, so won't leave you sore on a long journey – quality materials are present throughout the interior and add to the classy feeling.

The F-Type SVR is a low-slung, two-seater sports car, so space and practicality are naturally not its forte.

That said, the cabin isn't claustrophobic and the boot is big enough to fit a few bags for a weekend away – in coupe form it has up to 408 litres of space, while the convertible has about half that.

There are plenty of driver aids that come as standard to help keep the car (and driver) out of trouble, such as dynamic stability control, emergency brake assist and low-grip drivetrain modes.

The F-Type R, on which the SVR is based, is quite a frenetic experience – but this car manages to tread the line between ramping up the drama while adding composure in a way that beggars belief.

Gears slam home in an instant thanks to the software-tweaked, eight-speed automatic transmission, while the four-wheel drive system has been given additional rear bias to improve agility.

Aside from the glorious assault on the senses handed out by the engine, the other driving highlight comes from the revised chassis. Spring rates remain unchanged, but there are new dampers and anti-roll bars, wider, lighter wheels and stiffened rear knuckles.

It all combines to make the SVR feel more planted than ever before without losing the F-Type's aggressive character.

When buying a high performance coupe that costs in excess of £100,000, value for money needs context. That can be given to by another car with a stunning exhaust note.

The V10-engined Audi R8 comes with similar drama and, as far as mid-engined supercars go, is fairly practical. The entry-level model starts at £120,645, while the bewinged, full-fat version is about £10,000 more – the F-Type SVR's power output sits between these two models.

Here, the F-Type looks like good value.

advertise in newspapers?

Consultancy Group Benchmarking have analysed what happens when companies include press advertising in their media mix. They looked at 500 models, across a five-year period and discovered that adding newspapers dramatically increases the return on investment of other media.

Over half were service companies who saw the effectiveness of their TV advertising double and their online digital display enjoy a four-fold increase.

Individual categories also saw impressive results. Automotive campaigns clocked a 70% increase. In retail it leapt by 2.8 times. Most remarkable of all, in the financial category, Benchmarking uncovered an increase of 5.7 times.

KANE'S DELIGHT

Goal machine: Harry Kane has won the Premier League's golden boot for a second time

North Middlesex suffer their first loss

NORTH MIDDLESEX'S perfect start to the season in the Premier Division of the Kingspan Middlesex County Cricket League came to an end on Saturday when they suffered a seven-wicket defeat at Teddington.

North Middlesex had won their opening two matches, but they were let down by their batting on this occasion as they could only make 77 – with Will Vanderspar top-scoring with just 18. James Keightley and Charles Hopkins were the pick of the bowlers, both ending up with figures of 3-15.

Tim Armstrong then top-scored with an unbeaten 26 as Teddington eased to 78-3 off 29 overs to climb above North Middlesex in the table.

And Highgate, Hornsey and North London were all beaten in their matches in Division Two.

Hussain Shabbir top-scored with 59 as North London amassed 197-6 in a rain-hit clash at Barnes, but James Alder's stunning 117 not out helped the hosts to make it to 198-4 in reply.

Highgate struggled with the bat in their match at Osterley, only making 111 after enduring a collapse which saw their last five wickets fall for the addition of just five runs. Scott Elstone top-scored with 36, while Fahim Bahrami (4-23) and Abubakar Ilyas (4-25) both impressed with the ball.

Malik Shahid Sadiq (3-16) helped to keep Highgate in contention by playing a key role in reducing Osterley to 54-6 in reply, but Lakmal Arachchige (36 not out) and Bahrami (18 not out) then shared in an unbroken stand of 58 to guide the hosts to 112-6.

Meanwhile, Hornsey lost by four wickets in their match at high-flying Twickenham.

Paul Weekes (44) and Williams Prest (43) were the main contributors as Hornsey posted 175-7 batting first, but the hosts recovered from a poor start to their reply to ease to 178-6, with Carlos Nunes making 75.

North Middlesex host Shepherds Bush on Saturday, while North London entertain Eastcote, Hornsey host Osterley and Highgate are at home to Barnes.

Skolars endure an afternoon to forget

THE London Skolars endured a difficult afternoon on Sunday as they suffered a 50-10 defeat at North Wales Crusaders in rugby league's Kingstone Press League One.

The visitors started the match brightly and James Dandy and Ryan Chester both went close early on, but they fell behind on seven minutes when a sweeping move ended with Ryan Smith touching down.

Having opened the scoring, the Crusaders immediately began to take control of the contest and Simon Atherton and Smith grabbed tries in quick succession to leave them 18-0 ahead after 17 minutes.

The Skolars hit back and opened their account through a Ben Pointer try on 28 minutes, but their respite was only temporary and further scores from Aaron Moore and Luke Warburton gave the hosts a 30-4 advantage at the interval.

The one-sided nature of the match continued in the second half and Corey Lee, Dave Bloomfield and Moore scored further tries before Smith completed his hat-trick to take the Crusaders up to the 50-point mark. Danny Price converted seven of their tries.

The Skolars did have the final say when Michael Brown touched down in the closing stages, with Jy-Mel Coleman converting, but it was scant consolation for a visiting side who were well beaten on the day.

The London Skolars' next match is at York City Knights on June 4.

HARRY KANE revealed his pride after securing the Premier League's golden boot for a second successive year in fine style.

The Tottenham Hotspur striker had trailed Everton's Romelu Lukaku by two goals in the race to be the league's leading scorer heading into the final week of the campaign.

But Kane saved his best for last as both he and the team ended on a high – scoring four times in Thursday's 6-1 victory at Leicester City before grabbing a hat-trick in Sunday's remarkable 7-1 triumph at Hull City.

The seven goals took his tally in the league for this season up to 29 – four clear of Lukaku – and also leaves him on 99 career goals for Spurs in all competitions.

"It's been incredible," he said. "To score seven goals in the last two matches of a Premier League season is a special feeling. To win the golden boot and finish on 29 goals in 30 games is something I'm very proud of."

"I've had a couple of setbacks this season with injuries, but they've only made me stronger. I've got to give big thanks to the team, they create so many chances and I've just got to make sure I'm in the positions to put them away. It's a dream to play for this team. Without them I wouldn't be holding this award.

"I've always said anyone can be a good striker, but to be a great striker you have to do it on a consistent level."

"To win this back-to-back in such a difficult league with so many top strikers and to have been out injured as well, that shows determination and shows how good this team is as well. It's something I'm very proud of – hopefully I can go and get it next season as well."

Sunday's crushing win saw Spurs become just the third team in Premier League history to score seven times away from home, and manager Mauricio Pochettino was delighted to finish the campaign on a high.

"I'm so proud, the way we finished the season was fantastic," he said. "I'm very happy for Harry. I think to be second in the table, fighting all the way with 86 points was amazing."

"It's not only the results, but the football we played was very good and now it's a big challenge for next season. Our dream and our challenge is to be better this season."

"Now is a moment to take to decisions, to try to improve and try to provide the team with all the tools to try to win, that's the challenge for us."

- I am the only candidate that has “No Whip”, I am accountable to you, not my party.

Country before party; People before party; People before politics.

"If you do what you have always done..."

UKIP has 'no whip': our elected officials are accountable to you, not to a party machine.
UKIP is not controlled by unions, so we can help businesses and jobs grow.
UKIP will listen to local residents' concerns at regular surgeries open to all.
UKIP will challenge complacent and inept councillors.
UKIP is the new liberating voice needed in Westminster.

BREXIT

- For clarification, this country voted to leave the EU, i.e. the political union, not Europe. There are 28 countries in the EU, yet there are 50 countries in Europe, there are 195 countries in the world and the EU is only 7% of the world population. We will continue to trade with Europe, co-operate and be friendly with our fellow Europeans.
- Now is the time to make a complete break. As we are about to go global we must not let anything hold us back from being competitive on the world stage. The EU is a failing project, its share of the world economy has almost halved since 1980. We have a £62bn trade deficit with the EU, yet a £27bn trade surplus with the rest of the world. The EU accounted for 37% of world GDP when we joined, and will fall to 22% by 2025.
- The UK is the world's fifth largest economy, with the highest economic growth and lowest employment in the developed world. The EU is quite the opposite, with failing growth and the highest unemployment.
- Now is the time to do even better outside the EU, which currently prevents the UK from making its own free trade deals.
- The 161 countries of the World Trade Organisation (WTO) have grown their trade by 276% since 1995.
- Our future is bright outside the EU. We will be able to regain our seat at the World Trade Organisation, negotiate our own trade deals with the Commonwealth, China, India and the US and go from a consumer market of 500 million to 6.5 billion.

As a keen Brexiteer, I will work to ensure:

- Parliament resumes its supremacy of law-making with no impediments, qualifications or restrictions on its future actions agreed in any leaving deal.
- Britain must resume full control of its immigration and asylum policies and border controls. There must be no impediments, qualifications or restrictions agreed to in any leaving deal.
- Leaving the EU must involve restoring to the UK full maritime sovereignty.
- The UK must retake its seat on the World Trade Organisation and resume its sovereign right to sign trade agreements with other countries. The UK must have full legal rights to set its own tariff and non-tariff barriers consistent with WTO rules. This means leaving the EU single market and customs union.
- There must be no final settlement payment to the EU, and no ongoing payments to the EU budget after we have left. We must reclaim our share of financial assets from entities such as the European Investment Bank.
- A world of opportunity awaits, therefore Brexit must be done before the end of 2019 if not before.

HEALTHCARE and NHS

- Our NHS is under pressure due to increasing demand, whilst at the same time wasting valuable tax payers money.
- The NHS has enough money, over £120bn per year, it is simply badly managed and the waste is simply eye watering.
- Our EU contributions are enough to build a new, fully-staffed NHS hospital every week, yet we are allowing increasing demand, while at the same time cutting expenditure.
- We are fortunate to be exiting the EU as their rules cost us more than money; the Clinical Trials Directive badly delays the testing of cancer drugs.
- The Transatlantic Trade & Investment Partnership (TTIP) would have allowed the EU to dictate the privatisation of our institutions like public health.
- TTIP's 'regulatory convergence' agenda sought to bring EU standards on food safety and the environment closer to those of the US. But US regulations are much less strict, with 70% of all processed foods sold in US supermarkets now containing genetically modified ingredients.

I fully support UKIP's policies of:

- Protect the NHS from privatisation and keep it free at the point of use.
- Spend £3bn extra a year specifically on frontline services - that's 8,000 more GPs, 20,000 more nurses and 3,000 more midwives.
- Campaign for a cross party review of the way the NHS is managed.
- End the PFI scandal.
- Increase mental health funding and dementia treatment by £300 million.
- Integrate health and social care and pay home care workers at the very least the minimum wage.

EDUCATION

- Across the country 240,000 new primary places are needed, 37% of them in London. Seventeen London boroughs, mostly outside the centre of the city face a 'severe' problem, with a shortfall of more than 5%.
- When we consider the fact that the 2015-16 schools block unit of funding is £4,612 per pupil, 100,000 additional school places would therefore cost £461 million.
- 100,000 additional school places would cost just 2.4 per cent of the EU membership contribution.
- London needs 88,000 more primary school places next year and of those Enfield is among the areas at risk of running out of places.

As the MP for Edmonton I would campaign to:

- Create grammar schools to improve social mobility and technical schools.
- Scrap university fees and allow our youth to go debt free.
- Cut teachers' workload and abolish SATs for 7 year-olds.
- Give teachers the freedom to teach.

ECONOMY

- Let's we forget, our country has a deficit of £90 billion and a debt of at least £1.5 trillion. The only way to pay that off is to trade our way out. Of course we would never achieve it if we remained part of the EU.
- Now we are leaving, we will go from 500 million global consumers to 6.5 billion consumers. The only future is global. We can take our place back on the world stage, and provide a golden future for our children and failing industries.
- The EU is inward looking, and protectionist, it has earned the reputation of 'Fortress Europe' as it attempts to protect its own inefficient and failing industries.
- The extent of the various types of EU laws and regulations which bind the UK, without our full and democratic involvement total of 112,800 - that's a lot of laws, regulations and standards that adds bureaucracy costing £33.3 billion per year to our businesses and industries and prevents us from being competitive on the global stage.
- A good example of the damage done is the 'EU Clinical Trials Directive' which adds costs to cancer drugs that could be saving our lives. Trials that used to cost £200k now cost £2m. The EU is stunting innovation and making these drugs unaffordable within our NHS.
- Freedom from all this red tape will be like uncorking a bottle. Our productivity will grow and there will be prosperity for all.

As the MP for Edmonton I will:

- Campaign to clear the deficit during this parliament.
- Our economic strategy needs an investment bank to support business to take advantage of the opportunities.
- Support businesses by reducing corporation tax and cutting red tape.
- Repeal the Climate Change Act 2008 which costs £18bn per year.
- Cancel HS2 costing £42.6bn, at £78.5 million per kilometre is 10 times that of other countries.

IMMIGRATION

- Uncontrolled immigration is precisely that, 'uncontrolled' and as a result we can never build enough infrastructure to support it; it simply fails at a concept level.
- The Government's own data says that 630,000 Nil numbers were issued to EU migrants in one year. As a result it looks like the true figure of EU immigration could be as much as half a million a year.
- This is not an issue of race, colour or creed. It is simply an issue of numbers. We need to develop a plan for the future in a more even handed and fair manner.

As the MP for Edmonton I would:

- Link immigration by formulae to the growth of the economy.
- Provide a fair and equal policy for EU and non-EU migrants.
- Keep immigration at levels that do not depress wages.
- Respect and tolerance for all, under one British law.

... You get what you have always got"

TAXATION

- Due to waste and irresponsible spending, successive governments have broken the contract between hard working taxpayers and themselves.
- At the same time Government has allowed large corporations to exploit loopholes to avoid their fair share of tax.
- Now we are leaving the EU, the UK would be able to lower VAT on domestic energy bills. VAT on household gas and electricity is currently charged at 5%, we can reduce this to 0% hence improving the cost of living.

I support UKIP's policies of:

- Raising the personal allowance to £13,000.00.
- Raising the threshold for paying 40% tax to £55,000.00.
- Increasing the married couples allowance to £1,500.00.
- Abolishing Inheritance Tax.
- Campaign to remove VAT from domestic energy bills.
- Restore tax sovereignty and implement a turnover tax to stop large corporations avoiding their fair share

POVERTY & INEQUALITY

- Globally the top 1% wealthiest individuals now own more of the total wealth than everyone else on the planet.
- The top 1% in the UK own 24% of all UK wealth.
- The top 4% in the UK own 44% of all UK wealth.
- We are experiencing excessive capitalism which is destabilising society; it is no longer good enough just to tinker with policies that redistribute the wealth.

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- Campaign to stop linking Foreign Aid as a percentage of GDP.
- Make sure we spend on UK citizens before spending foreign aid.
- Scrap bedroom tax.
- UKIP supports a simplified, streamlined welfare system.
- A focus on reducing the cost of living.
- Invest in training for the skills of the future.

EMPLOYMENT

- Our membership of the EU has through uncontrolled borders allowed companies to import cheap labour and force down local wages.
- The UK was legislating for employee protection and anti-discrimination rights long before we joined the EEC/EU.
- There are literally hundreds of examples, including: Disabled Persons (Employment) Act 1958, Tribunals and Inquiries Act 1961, Chronically Sick and Disabled Persons Act 1970, Clean Air Act, Trade Union Act 1964, Agricultural Wages Act 1948, Industry Act 1972, Equal Pay Act 1970, Sex Discrimination Act 1975, Race Relations Act 1965 and 1968. All these were initiated by the UK government.
- Global growth will see the creation of even more jobs, and not just low wage, zero hour contract ones.

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- Support small businesses by reducing business rates, national insurance and encouraging growth through improved access to trade credit insurance.
- End zero hour contracts.
- Allow firms to offer jobs to British workers first.
- Conduct skills review to inform education.

SOCIAL CARE

- According to Age UK, 900,000 older people between the ages of 65 and 89 have social care needs that are not met.
- With an ageing population we have separated for too long our health and social care services leading to a complex, inefficient and fragmented approach that leaves too many people falling through the gaps.

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- Integrate health and social care under the control of the NHS.
- Introduce a legally binding 'Dignity Code' to improve the quality of care.
- £3bn extra a year on frontline services.
- Restore the Meals on Wheels services.
- Scrap hospital parking charges.

DEFENCE

- It is NATO that has kept the peace in Europe, although it is in need of reform. The EU's own record is the disastrous efforts in Bosnia and Kosovo, both in Europe and all within 130 miles of Italy.
- In a world of increasing uncertainty it is vital we retain our nuclear deterrent and make clear we would be willing to use it.
- Now that we are going global, we have an opportunity to change our Foreign Policy to one that is not US or EU centric, but one that is shaped by the UK; for too long our voice has been missing on the world stage.

UKIP will:

- Retain our nuclear deterrent and invest in our conventional military capabilities.
- Maintain our relationship with the US, but also reach out to China, Russia and the rest of the world, to build a dialogue for peace and put an end to unnecessary wars.
- Continue co-operation to ensure counter terrorism remains robust.
- Replace Human Rights Act with a Bill of Rights.
- Withdraw European Arrest Warrant.
- Honour the Military Covenant by providing veterans enhanced and guaranteed benefits.

HOUSING

- We need to build a new home every six minutes.
- Uncontrolled immigration means we cannot build the infrastructure we need, in the case of Housing; it is simply a case of supply and demand.
- EU rules stop us building the homes we need, with rules like the Habitats Directive causing additional costs and delays.
- Meanwhile 112,070 declared themselves homeless in England in 2014.

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- Protect green belt land by building affordable homes on 'brown field' land.
- Establish a National Homeless Register to make it easier for them to claim welfare benefits.
- UKIP will oppose the sale of housing and land to private developers, ending the depletion of council housing stock.
- Remove stamp duty for new homes on brown field sites.

UKIP is a libertarian democratic party that believes in putting Britain first.

To be a libertarian means to uphold liberty as a principle objective.

Libertarians seek to maximise autonomy, and freedom of choice, emphasising political freedom, voluntary association and the primacy of individual judgement.

What does this mean for the people of Edmonton?

HOUSING

- Enfield has a severe shortage of Council and Housing Association homes for meeting the needs of everyone who wants one in Enfield.
- In Enfield, over the past five years less than 900 homes became available for letting each year to applicants on Enfield's Housing Register.
- Enfield has been particularly dramatic: the number of rough sleepers has risen from 18 to 174 per year. The borough also has a high level of hidden homelessness.
- Enfield has the fifth highest level of homeless households. At present, the number of households living in temporary accommodation in the constituency of Edmonton is 924, as identified in postcodes N9 to N18. That figure represents 34% of households in the area, which is an enormous percentage of people without stable homes.
- Enfield saw a huge increase in its private rental sector between 2001 and 2011. According to a recent report, the average London renter spends almost 60% of their income (after benefits, but not after tax) on their rent.

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- Build more council homes for local people and half way houses for homeless veterans.
- End the Labour led council practice of buying property through estate agents at undisclosed fees and then selling by auction, losing up to 20% value and against all property wisdom.
- Allow for local referendums to overturn large scale planning permission.
- Campaign for longer term tenancies, and an inflation cap on rent increases.

SCHOOLS

- There are 37 schools in Enfield where a majority of pupils have English as a second language which puts pressure on school budgets and teachers.
- By 2020 as a result of uncontrolled immigration Enfield will have more of a strain on school places.

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- All youngsters in Edmonton should have access to the best academic and vocational education.
- Open grammar schools in Edmonton, so that whatever your background, you can get on and lead the next generation of businesses in the Borough.
- A new vocational training college to give more young people a head start in trades and services.

EMPLOYMENT

- The rate of employment in Enfield is 33% according to Employment figures for April 2012 to March 2013.
- Unemployment in Edmonton is nearly twice the UK average with almost 4% of the 'economically active population' in Edmonton signing on.
- Since 2001, Enfield has seen a bigger rise in the proportion of its population claiming out of work benefits of any London borough. In 2001, measured by the proportion of people claiming out of work benefits, Edmonton Green was the fourth most deprived ward in London.
- Young adult unemployment in Edmonton is high, as it is across both the borough and London. A high proportion of Enfield's NEET population are in Edmonton.

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- I would campaign to see an Enterprise Zone in Edmonton to attract big businesses to the area, as they unlock key development sites, consolidate infrastructure, and create jobs.
- Enfield residents should be given priority in council job opportunities.
- Cut business rates for small businesses.
- Remove employers' National Insurance for small businesses.
- Protect individual business owners in our high streets.

HEALTHCARE and NHS

- North Middlesex Hospital A&E had the worst waiting times in London and as a result was under threat of closure.
- Enfield has a two week waiting time to see your family doctor due to the increase in demand.
- Some GP practices have gone from a patient list of 1,500 to 4,000 in 10 years.

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- Campaign for the reopening of Chase Farm A&E.
- Pay carers an extra £572 per year.
- Scrap hospital parking charges.
- Protect core workers from high rents.

CRIME & POLICING

- We have experienced a third murder investigation launched in Enfield in the last month alone.
- Knife Crime is on the rise due to a reduction in police numbers and magistrates failing to implement "Enfield Law".

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- Put more police on the streets and CCTV to crackdown on burglary, theft, assaults and hard drug use plus invest in Youth Centres.
- Zero-tolerance of anti-social tenants and implement a 24/7 Enfield noise patrol scheme.

WASTEFUL SPENDING

- Enfield Council's Labour Council has wasted £42m of your money on a Cycle Lane Scheme that was opposed by 70% of residents. UKIP will allow for local referenda to overturn planning and Council led expensive vanity projects.
- Enfield Council's CEO, Rob Leak earned £190k of your taxpaying money last year, and 14 other staff are on £100k or above.
- The Council spent more than £1,000 of taxpayer's money on cinema tickets and fast food through purchase cards, used by staff to charge expenses.
- Labour led Enfield Council also chose to spend £500k on PR last year, whilst cutting transport for Special Educational Needs for the vulnerable.
- Billions of pounds have been raised in Landfill Tax, yet Enfield is still raising Council Tax. In addition Green Bin collections are moving to fortnightly collections and due to high charges there is an increase in fly-tipping on our streets.

As MP for Edmonton I would:

- Undertake a full audit of Council expenditure.

OTHER

- Provide more local free parking and ensure speed cameras are used as a deterrent not tax revenue.
- Scrap the outrageous Enfield Cycle Lane Scheme.
- Amend the smoking ban to give pubs the choice to open smoking rooms separately ventilated from non smoking rooms.
- Support the recall of MP's subject to local petition.
- Allow large scale developments to be overturned by a local referendum.

"There is a real change on the horizon; all you have to do is vote for it. This is where UKIP came from; a feeling that successive governments were no longer representing the will of the people"
